Guidance to be rescinded

As a result of OSFI's policy review, this guidance was identified as outdated, redundant, or no longer fit-for-purpose. It will be rescinded and removed from the website by April 1, 2025.

OSFI has a strong interest in audit quality given external audits of federally regulated financial institutions (FRFIs) are an important element of our supervisory process. We believe that high-quality audits of FRFIs play an important role in OSFI's mandate to protect the rights and interests of depositors, policyholders and creditors of financial institutions. More broadly, such audits contribute to public confidence in a safe and sound financial system. In addition, OSFI's Corporate Governance Guideline<sup>1</sup> highlights the key role audit committees play in fostering a quality audit through the effective exercise of their responsibilities with respect to the external auditor and the statutory audit.

Recent international and domestic initiatives, which aim to strengthen external audit quality, have led to three notable efforts that can assist audit committees<sup>2</sup> in discharging their responsibilities. We are of the view that these initiatives noted below provide best practices and should be implemented.

1. The Financial Stability Board has encouraged the International Association of Insurance Supervisors (IAIS) to enhance its standards related to external audit. As such, the IAIS is determining what changes are needed to the Insurance Core Principles to reflect the audit committee's responsibility in overseeing the external audit function. Insurers will be notified of OSFI's expectations after revisions to the Insurance Core Principles have been identified and agreed upon.
2. Domestically, to promote discussions of external audit quality for reporting issuers, the Canadian Public Accountability Board (CPAB) has issued a protocol for the external auditor to share CPAB inspection information with the audit committees (the Protocol)<sup>3</sup>. This information should improve audit quality by enhancing the nature and depth of discussions between the auditor and audit committee on audit quality and applies beginning with CPAB's 2014 audit file inspections (2013 year-end audits).

OSFI expects audit committees of reporting issuers to discuss systemic audit quality issues raised in CPAB public reports with their external auditors, and to enquire whether the audit file of the institution has been selected for inspection by CPAB and whether there have been any significant inspection findings specific to the audit of the institution.

3. Additionally, Chartered Professional Accountants of Canada (CPA Canada) has issued guidance resources<sup>4</sup> designed to encourage open and candid discussions about audit quality. The guidance includes an overview on audit committee oversight of the external auditor and two companion tools to assist audit committees in the conduct of annual assessments and periodic comprehensive reviews of their external audit firm.

OSFI encourages audit committees to embrace the CPA Canada guidance and tools as part of their overall assessment of the external auditor.

We believe the aforementioned audit quality initiatives are pertinent to audit committees of insurers and should be applied accordingly by fiscal year-end 2014. As new guidance and publications on external audit quality are developed, OSFI expects audit committees to have a mechanism in place to ensure they are apprised of such developments and to determine the extent of their applicability.
